MUSEUM EXHIBITS

Kentucky On The Move Exhibit Opens

The National Corvette Museum in Bowling Green has opened a new exhibit that traces the history of transportation in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Kentucky celebrated its 225th anniversary on June 1, and the exhibit commemorates the milestone while taking visitors on a trip through time.

The exhibit doesn't focus solely on items or objects made in Kentucky. It tells the story of how things were used in Kentucky and how people interacted with that form of transportation, in addition to the Kentucky-made artifacts like the first Bowling Green built Corvette. Additional artifacts include 1800s era mile markers, a horse-drawn sleigh, early 19th century riding breeches and a tractor.

The exhibit will be on display through May, 2018.
