MUSEUM EXHIBITS

Ed Roth Exhibit Opens to Much Fanfare

On Friday, January 31, 2020 the National Corvette Museum in Bowling Green, Kentucky celebrated the grand opening of a new exhibit with a ribbon cutting ceremony, bringing together icons of the 1950's and 60's 'Kustom Kar Kulture.'

"One might ask why the NCM has devoted a year-long exhibit to the art and influence of Ed 'Big Daddy' Roth," said Dr. Sean Preston, President and CEO of the Museum. "While our Museum was established 25 years ago to be the caretakers and collectors of Corvette history, we understand that you cannot tell the story of the early days of Corvette without telling the story of the Ford Thunderbird. You cannot tell the story of Corvette Racing without talking about the Cobra, the Viper and the Ford GT. And you cannot tell the story of Corvette design without talking about those who influenced the designers, which brings us to Ed Roth."

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. – A new track is coming to the National Corvette Museum’s Motorsports Park and Warren County is an investor.

This morning at Warren County fiscal court, $35,000 from the special tourism project fund was approved to help pay for the new off-roading obstacle course.

The courses will be built for off-road vehicles such as trucks, jeeps and SUVs.

The venue will cater to drivers of different levels: beginner, intermediate and advanced, and will include a mud pit, log crawl, a sand pit and more.

“There is this really large community of folks that like to trail drive and what we are building is really an obstacle course,” said Mitch Wright, the Motorsports Park general manager.

This new track is an exciting new way Bowling Green can draw in more visitors, which bring more money to the area according to the Bowling Green Chamber of Commerce CEO Ron Bunch.

The addition to the Motorsports Park is also aimed at bringing in more tourists to the Bowling Green area bringing cashflow into the area as well.

“They are spending money at the grocery stores. They are buying fuel. And, obviously the restaurants, we hear from the restaurants all the time. They know when we have something going on,” said Wright.

If the weather cooperates, Wright expects the groundbreaking in the next few weeks and the track to be completed in a month or so.
